she was only a girl, it was nobody's world and she told me she'd lived for a while i was only 16 but i knew how to dream i still dream though it's way out of style

i'd rather fall down gently than never fall down at all

than never fall down at all, down at all we were took by surprise as we looked at the size of the man that we all called the lord just between you and me well there weren't much to see what with helmet and blood-stained sword

so it was somebody's world and i was only the girl and i told you i'd be here for a while 'cause when you're only 16 and you know how to dream you keep dreaming 'til the dreaming gets wild
