

Lately I toss and turn at night
I hold my pillow very tight
Wake up to find the covers on the floor
I can't go on since you 've been gone
Sometimes I don't know what I'm living for
See I don't know what he told you 'bout the better life
His better cars and how he can treat you better
But none of that will keep you warm at night
He'll give you more
But who could have a better love

Chorus:

Better love
A better love
A better, better love
Who could love you better
There is no reason
Honey, you should ever worry what I'm doing
While you're gone I'm being true to you
My fire burns for your return
And I'll just dream of you until you do

See I never could replace your love with anyone's
I do believe it's easier said than done
No matter whose promises you dream of
Go search the world
You couldn't find a better love
