They told me what I should do They gave me a way to get to you You never stood a chance

The screen is never truly blank and I can't hide my mind Behind lie words that tear inside of me Their faces find me anywhere and in my room I feel their stare The walls are cold they shimmer blue Their vision hides inside of you

This Circuit Vision

My memories fade and I appear Submerged and lost in digit beams I confine myself within myself A circuit glows I feel the need An interface 'tween man/machine They boot my mind and steal my dreams as they feed me deep inside

Fractal code interlocking my spine Feeding new format breaking mine down System runs steady Colour code true ID# strands altered Connecting me to you

You couldn't dream you had no mind but now my eyes see only what you feed me

Conversely seen it's all so clear Behind the news they're always there The integration's just begun I make my move when they say so My eyes feed Data they must know A night of secrets by the screen is all the programming I need
