

it gets out

feeling slow watching everyone is passing by and im still here
is this worth all the stress and come around cuz im still down everything is so confusing

competition swallows me
from a life where what you hear ain't always what you see competition worries me
brings out the best in you
and the worst in me

caught this time in the middle come and find a common ground everyone seems to be staring am i wrong
indecision i don't know who ive become and i'm not sure who you are either

competition swallows me
from a life where what you hear ain't always what you see
competition worries me
brings out the best in you

and the worst in me

i suppose you have some games that you would love to play with me i sure do would you like to try be my guest

competition swallows me
from a life where what you hear ain't always what you see
competition worries me
brings out the best in you