

Artist: tangarine

Title: Keeping the promises

download from: <http://www.lyricsdisc.com>

Whatever happened to keeping the promises.
It's oh so easy to tell a lie.
I kept your tears inside my eye.
But mine are just vanished in the haze.
One another gave them a place.
And all the others that couldn't hide it in there face.
Your promises are taking them away.

Concrete and knowable you make your stands.
But you've got your phenomenons still in your hand.
Into my ears you throw your commands.
I think you all misunderstand.

To all my friends that just don't seem to feel.
Your place will be giving away.
I got nothing left for you to say.
A friendship is more than two different names.
You gotta accept that people aren't the same.
All you do for others will return back to you.
So be good, faithful and true.

Concrete and knowable you make your stands.
But you've got your phenomenons still in your hand.
Into my ears you throw your commands.
I think you all misunderstand.

I had a vision of the world in another place.
Well everyone had someone.
No one had to get it done.
We felt like swimming in a deep blue sea.
Had no breath to take, no him or we.
And all we had to brake was a little bit of time.
Crossing both sides of the line.

Concrete and knowable you make your stands.
But you've got your phenomenons still in your hand.
Into my ears you throw your commands.
I think you all misunderstand.