Title: Radiance

I've had enough of this red light been waiting here for no one, no one Driving on like reruns feeling nothing new time has stopped Resting some for this town it's comforting to know nothing new if I could only make a sound Holding the stars like paintings we are pull one down for me colors alive like radiance swimming back to your sea Can't explain this feeling that's been grounding me for so long, so long keeping faith, I move on praying for something soon How long, How long must I scream to the guards let me out to the past I'm anchored
If I could only make a sound
