

Spoke with Kate late last night
With hopes to get my fix of her advice
Inquired about a mutual thing and the feeling that I held in her life

And she said when you gonna learn
She must create her own reality to survive
She said when you gonna learn
That those Geminis will get you everytime

But the conversation moved along
I was mystified by the eloquence of her words
Which made everything I said confusing and entirely absurd

And she said when you gona learn
She must create her own reality to survive
She said when you gona learn
That those Geminis will get you everytime

Spoke with Kate late last night
With the hopes to answer the phone that was ringing loud
Jesse why don't you go get it because we don't want them to not leave a message for us
And I said when you gonna learn
(Who is it?) I don't know who it is
But whoever it is will gain a new significance in our life
Because while we were demo-ing this song they called to say hello
They've just bought themself into this song
They didn't know what they were getting into when they dialled the numbers
Who is it?
Oh my God she's now in this song for forever