Title: The prediction

download from: <http://www.lyricsdisc.com>

It was always curled up inside of me curled up like something that cannot be admitted like something that we wish for, but are afraid to lose it is dark and I am alone I am at a stage of my life where everything is cold where despite of me, everything is far away but at the moment I face it, I look at it as if I could read myself in it the cards are drawn, my left hand pointing I eagerly await this destiny that I want to fashion the game comes to a stop, the cards fall one after the other, I hold my breath, my heart pounds hearts, spades, clubs

I hope and I fear so much also But the truth falls, my truth so true for me
It appears as an open door opened on my desires on what I knew the future belongs to me, my turn to play so incredible
so improbable
I waited for so long during my short life so far it was always in me
I have no choice, I must succeed
