

There's a girl I know she seeks flowers under purple skies
And when the cold wind blows she lights up a candle for all her lonely times

When nature calls
she's waiting for her man
When darkness falls
to protect and understand
Among the flowers in the world
he's not one of those he's an Undiscovered Rose

There's a man I know he walks the rainbow to believe in love
All the colors that glow he can hear the angels sing from above

When heaven calls he's waiting for his girl When faith is lost
he needs to hear her words Among the colors in the world she's not one of those she's an Undiscovered Rose

Her tears have all run dry
He lies restless in the night
But there's always in their minds that the one who seeks will find

When nature calls
she's waiting for her man
When darkness falls
to protect and understand
Among the flowers in the world
he's not one of those
he's an Undiscovered Rose
An Undiscovered Rose He's not, she's not one of those...
...Undiscovered Rose

Two of a kind...
Not one of those flowers...
Two of those...roses...