

did you dig me up this morning from underground, it's where you left me, oh and your eyes leave me without recognition know that all the idle skys have become to me who you used to be

hold your breath
you know how long
do what you can
too forget you were wrong
is it ok if i dont care anymore
we give up sometimes
and i guess that should be
good enough for me

I hope you see more of yourself than you were ready for all the things that you are now and how good things were before and now you left us
and pushed us so far behind

hold your breath
you know how long
do what you can
too forget you were wrong
is it ok if i dont care anymore
we give up sometimes
and i guess that should be
good enough for me

why are you giving up
why wont you stand your ground
why are you giving up
why wont you stand your ground

hold your breath
you know how long
do what you can
too forget you were wrong
is it ok if i dont care anymore
we give up sometimes
and i guess that should be
good enough for me