

Face down in the chemistry of sight and sound
I would never have gone
I would never have gone

This man is old, and fat, and sold us all (?)
I would never have gone
I would never have gone
I would never have gone

Between the skin and bone is where the west was won
I would never have gone
I would never have gone

Swallowing all the bowl by their orders (?)
I would never have gone
I would never have gone
I would never have gone

Honey this will be your future

Honey this will be your future you should care enough to carve your heart into a tree and it shall live with someone special
