

(N. Brown/J. Rwakaara)

V1

All of my life I never believed in myself
Or what I had to offer this world
Trust me when I say it has been hard to make it this far
I have my share of scars

V2

I've wandered near and far searching for purpose in life
I understand now that I have something to give
And I can not hesitate as I reevaluate
I've finally opened my eyes

Chorus:

With the wind at my back
And the road 'neath my feet
With the gifts I was given at birth
No one can take them
I will follow my dreams I will do what it takes
With the wind at my back and my dreams
No one can take them from me

V3

It is so very hard when your soul wakes up slow
You have to work over time to help it grow
And I have realized as I have awakened from my slumber
That even if it's late, it's better than never

Bridge:

It's amazing how I could not see
All along strength lived in me
I have a gift that resides inside
This truth now, I can't deny
I've struggled to make it this far
And no matter how hard
I have opened my eyes, I am whole
Blow wind blow, blow me on from here
Blow wind blow, blow away my fear